Schools to expand if funds available

The Haliburton County Board of Education will seek provincial funding for an expansion to Archie Stouffer Elementary School and to another school in Haliburton Village, it was decided at a board meeting last Thursday.

To accommodate increasing student populations, the board determined that seven new classrooms and a full-sized gymnasium will be needed at Archie Stouffer. An additional ten classrooms will also be needed in Haliburton.

The request for funding is in response to an unexpectedly high increase in student populations at the Kindergarten level in both Minden and Haliburton. The board is also anticipating the introduction by the Ministry of Education of a reduced student-teacher ratio, which would ultimately require more classroom spaces within three years.

Presenting a preliminary report to the board, education director Stuart Baker said Archie Stouffer and Victoria Street Schools are the "hot spots" right now in terms of space. He stressed that the information in the report was designed to promote discussions by the board members. He said any plans for expansions are very flexible and would first need to undergo study by the board's administration and school principals.

By passing a resolution to ask for funding, the board is not committing itself at this time to a definite building program. If funding is approved for one or both the projects, the expansion plans can still be altered.

Over the last three years, there have been three portable classrooms added at Archie Stouffer school and it is anticipated that this would be increased to nine by 1992 if permanent classrooms are not built.

Increased enrolment at the Kindergarten level has boosted the number of classes to four this year and the board expects that this level will be maintained. Therefore, there will be a need for at least one additional classroom at the school each new year.

Along with the growing school population, there will be a need for more gymnasium space. The gym was built at a time when there were only seven classrooms at the school, and is an undersized gym, or "gymnasium."

For the purpose of the funding application, the board is required to detail what will be involved in the expansion. However, one trustee stressed that "nothing is cast in stone."

The application for Archie Stouffer School will ask for funding for seven new rooms and a double gym. The present gym could then be re-organized into more classroom space. Superintendent of Business Jim Bradley roughly esti-

Chamber cuts its deficit in half

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce has come a long way in improving its financial position over the last year, about 150 guests at the chamber's annual meeting last Wednesday were told.

In just one year, the chamber has managed to cut its deficit almost in half, the financial statements presented at the meeting at the PineStone Inn reveal.

Presenting the auditor's report, Roger Dart, from Dawson, Gray, Dart Chartered Accountants, said the financial turn around is "good news" for the chamber. 1987 was a very successful year, he said. He congratulated the management, staff and directors of the chamber for the money management that resulted in a net surplus of $13,707 for the year.

By the end of 1986, the chamber was more than $30,000 in the hole. However with this year's surplus, the deficit has been reduced to $16,642.

Some of the highlights of the financial statement that helped achieve this result include: an increase in membership fees of more than $5,000; more income from promotional shows (up more than $6,000 over 1986); income from publications of $3,300; and a drop in total expenses of almost $36,000.

In her comments, chamber manager Shirley Rapson said the chamber has managed to improve the county's profile with a minimum of cost. "It is fair to say that we have made the most of every opportunity being mindful of every dollar spent."

Dawson this year's Highlander

Just a few weeks ago at the official opening ceremonies for the Parklane Apartments seniors' complex, Cliff Dawson was at the receiving end of much praise for his work as the chairman of that project.

Building further on this praise, Dawson was given one of the greatest honours the Haliburton Highlands has to offer when he was named Highlander of the Year at last Tuesday's annual meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking to an audience of over 150 at PineStone Inn and Country Club, the Chamber President Shawn Hagerman said this year's recipient of the honour is well known to everyone in the room. A Rotarian, a Legion member, church secretary and chairman of the Parklane Seniors Apartments project, Dawson is "One of the county's most outstanding citizens."

It was apparent that the announcement came as a surprise to Dawson, who joked that he did not know people in Haliburton were able to keep such a good secret. "It certainly came out of the blue to me," he said while accepting the plaque from Hagerman. "It's a real honour, and for that, I am very thankful."

In accepting the honour, Dawson joins ranks with County Piper Earl Cooper who was last year's Highlander of the Year. The award recognizes Dawson's dedication to the Highlands and his continued service to the community.

Municipalities join in Awards program

Athletes, volunteers, coaches, officials and sponsors from across Haliburton County will be honoured this year with special awards being made available through the federal government's Celebration 88 Awards program.

Municipal and community representatives were on hand at a special meeting in the County Council chambers last Tuesday where the awards program was outlined by Celebration 88 Community Consultant Evelyn Charters. At this meeting, the municipalities that were represented all agreed to participate in the program.

"If we don't take advantage of this, in my opinion, it's a missed opportunity," commented Dysart et al Townships Reeve Murray Fearrey. He said there is a tremendous number of volunteers in the area who are never recognized for their work. He said the Celebration 88 Awards are bound to be met with enthusiasm by Haliburton County municipalities.

Celebration 88 Awards are designed to recognize Canadians who have made outstanding contributions to their communities. "This program honours Canadian citizens who have demonstrated characteristics which are in keeping with the admirable ideals of the Olympic spirit: hard work, determination, moral character and dedication to community."

The representatives at Tuesdays meeting also noted that this is one program where small communities have an advantage over the big cities. Under the guidelines, each participating municipality, regardless of population, is provided with six medals to be awarded to individuals for their outstanding contributions to sports and the community. A committee to be formed by each municipality decides who will be honoured.

The six awards are to be made under the following five categories:

- Athlete: one male and one female are to be chosen for their outstanding contribution to their sport and community.

- Volunteer: The committees will each choose an individual for his or her unselfish contribution to sports and community.

- Coach: The committees will each choose an individual for devoting his or her time to the encouragement of fair play and sportsmanship and for bringing out the best in the athletes under his or her guidance.

- Official: each committee will choose a person who has devoted time to the promotion of fair play and sportsmanship.

- Sponsor: One business from each municipality will be honoured for its contribution toward the development of amateur sport in the community.

While it is the committees that will make the final decision on who will receive the awards, the nominations are to be made by members of the communities. The committees are asked to solicit nominations from the communities and then select the winners from these nominations.

The awards will be presented by Bill Scott, Victoria - Haliburton MP, at the ceremonies to be arranged by the committees. Charters suggested that these ceremonies might coincide with another event, such as a hockey tournament. The representatives present felt that the county could be divided into three sections for the purpose of presenting the awards.

In addition to the six medals, each municipality will be provided with Celebration 88 Certificates to honour individuals who deserve recognition for their unselfish contribution to the community. The certificates are not restricted to sporting activities, but are to be awarded to people who have been an inspiration by demonstrating the Olympic spirit in business, education, culture or community service.

As with the medals, committees are asked to solicit nominations from the community and to select certificate recipients by consensus.

In some cases a community may wish to honour the efforts of a citizen who is now deceased. This recognition can come in the form of either a medal or a certificate.

Over the next few days, the municipalities will be forming their committees. In the meantime, nominations will be accepted at the County offices in Minden or at Bill Scott's office at 2 King Street, Lindsay.

A nomination should give the name of the nominee, his or her full address and phone number and reasons why they deserve the award. Those making nominations should also include their own names, addresses and phone numbers.

More deer tags issued

A dramatic increase in the number of deer in Ontario allowed the Ministry of Natural Resources to issue validation tags to 61,548 hunters to hunt antlerless deer this year representing an increase of more than 10,000 over last year.

The deer hunt in the Minden area begins today.

The names were selected in a random draw from more than 83,000 applicants.

The number of applications for 1987 tags increased by 10 per cent over 1986, and 74 per cent of all hunters applying for the tags were successful in the draw.

A record 36,357 deer were harvested last year, and MNR biologists predict that more than 40,000 will be taken in 1987. Almost one third of the 121,345 hunters last year were successful in harvesting a deer and the rate is expected to rise this year.

"The provincial deer population has doubled in size, to more than 200,000 animals, since the antlerless deer validation tag program was introduced in 1980 to help reduce the harvest of antlerless animals," Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio said. "Relatively mild winters have also contributed to the increased deer population."

At the same time, the number of validation tags available has more than quadrupled, from 16,723 in 1980 to more than 71,000 this year. Not all the available 1987 tags were issued this year because there was not enough demand for them in some areas, particularly in wildlife management units designated for archery hunting.

MNR wants to hold deer population densities at a level just below the capacity of the range. This will sustain the health of the animals and avoid the dramatic changes in deer numbers often associated with overpopulation.

Deer hunting seasons open in many areas in the province today. Most archery seasons began October 15. Hunters should check the Summary of Hunting Regulations, 1987-88, for specific dates.

Warden Fearrey honoured

Municipal politicians from throughout the county and the two senior levels of government paid tribute to the leadership of Murray Fearrey at the annual Warden's banquet October 23. The evening was held at the Legion Hall in Haliburton as Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey nears the end of his third term as the county's Warden.

Attending the banquet were members of the Haliburton County Council, various county department heads, members of the Dysart municipal council and staff, past Wardens and members of the Fearrey family. Also in attendance was Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott, MPP John Eakins, guest speaker, the former Premier of Ontario Frank Miller, Victoria County Warden Bryce Young and individuals from Haliburton Village and the county.

In reviewing his year as Warden of the county, Mr. Fearrey noted that it had been a busy and successful one. He paid tribute to the co-operative nature of the county council, pointing out that without the support and effort of that body, little can be accomplished by the Warden.

He pointed out a number of changes which have taken place at the county level during the past year. Among those was acceptance by the county of the responsibility for the local employment service office, the introduction of a county-wide welfare system, the new addition to the county building to consolidate the operations of the roads department, the funding of the chronic care addition to the Haliburton Hospital, the plans for a new home for the county library system and the purchase of the abandoned CNR rail line, which he said will be the envy of many if properly managed and controlled.

Looking ahead, the Warden said one of the major challenges facing the county in the future will be to plan for a county-wide system of waste disposal to ensure adequate facilities are available and the environment is protected.

Noting that it was a year when a number of departments acquired new supervisors, he said the transition was not always a smooth one, but he felt the changes had been successful and predicted things would continue improving in the county.

The Warden singled out the efforts of the county clerk, Gary McKnight as being of particular help to his administration.

Speaking as the Reeve of Dysart, he also had special praise for the clerk of his own municipality, Wayne Wood, who recently announced his retirement from the post. Fearrey noted in particular, Mr. Wood and his wife's contribution as head of, and dispatchers for, the ambulance service in the municipality and county. His comments were greeted with a standing ovation for the Woods.

Both Bill Scott and John Eakins also paid tribute to the Warden. Eakins, who was recently appointed Minister of Municipal Affairs, paid tribute to Fearrey's leadership and initiative. He told the gathering that as the head of the ministry responsible for local government activities, he reaffirmed the importance of the county system in the province. He predicted that a current review will strengthen the importance of the county system of government in the province.

Scott said Haliburton

County had accomplished a great deal and said what has happened in this county would compare favourably to that in any other county closer to metropolitan areas where resources are greater.

Let's work together

It was encouraging to see last week a gathering of more than 150 people from all corners of Haliburton County in one place and getting along without arguments.

With tourism being the most important single industry in the Highlands, the role of our Chamber of Commerce is one of ever growing importance. The organization is too important to allow any internal rivalries to defeat its purpose. Therefore, the sort of camaraderie shared at last Wednesday's annual meeting is a very encouraging sign of unity.

To a certain extent, rivalry among neighbouring communities is healthy. It encourages people to try that much harder to improve their own communities.

However, when it comes to improving tourism within the county, a wider scope is necessary. When it comes to tourism, there should be no competition between Minden and Haliburton. What is a benefit to one community can also benefit the other. Instead of internal competition, we have to compete with other areas of the province rather than other areas of the county.

Neighbouring Muskoka can provide us with a strong example of the kind of success that can be had when communities join together. Their winter carnival, one of the largest and most successful in the province, is a joint effort by the three main communities. Instead of fighting to have the best winter carnival in Muskoka, Huntsville, Gravenhurst and Bracebridge have combined their efforts to provide one of the best carnivals in the province.

Haliburton County has as much or more to offer its visitors than any other region in Ontario, or even Canada. Let's hope that the sort of unified promotion being provided by our chamber will continue and the benefits of an improved tourism industry in the Highlands will continue to grow.

Hidden beauty.

Francophones Becoming The Favoured Few

With Bill 8, the French Language Services Act, now being implemented and Official Bilingualism just around the corner, Ontario's 5% Francophone minority will soon enjoy a very privileged position in our society: only they will qualify for up to 40% of positions in the public service. (Bill 8's Implementation Procedures Manual indicates that two positions in five may be classified as bilingual). Francophones will be awarded these positions while bilingual English-speaking Ontarians will not because Francophones will be the better linguists. This anomaly will be due to the different language learning environments experienced by English-speaking and French-Canadian citizens; the latter is usually immersed in English in everyday life while the former usually only encounters French in a classroom for a few hours a week. Also, and most important, the Federal Government, through the Secretary of State's office, is generously funding (well over $1,000,000 per year) such militant organizations as l'Association Canadienne-français de l'Ontario (AFCO) and the Canadian Parents for French to lobby aggressively for more and more Francophone services and Francophone employment in the public domain.

The ramifications of the above factors for English-speaking Ontarians is frightening. Particularly frightening is that Francophones will be greatly advantaged in acquiring jobs in the public service and in rising to positions of power in any hierarchy encompassing Official Bilingualism. One has only to observe what is happening on the Federal scene to appreciate the truth in the previous statement. And one need only read Bill C-72, a Bill to revamp the Official Languages Act, to appreciate the expansive nature of Official Bilingualism. Bill C-72, not yet in force but has had 1st Reading in the House on 26th of June this year, has among several other equally incredible provisions to beef-up the Act, these: a recognition of the primacy of the Act over all other Federal laws; the right of public servants to work in their own language; the equal participation of both official language groups in the public service. If Ontario adopts Official Bilingualism then future premiers, government leaders, public service heads etc. will in a few years have to be fluently bilingual (thus, most likely, Francophones). Is that what we Ontarians really want?

Fellow Ontarians, I strongly urge you to acquaint yourselves with Bill 8 and learn about this Draconian law that is now a part of Ontario's history, a law that was passed when only 55 members of the 125 member legislature were present to vote, a law that when fully implemented in 1989 will be short of Official Bilingualism only in name. Once acquainted with Bill 8 you will be shocked that our Government is subjecting us to this heavy-handed, exorbitantly expensive, and discriminatory legislation to placate a declining 5% minority population, mostly fully bilingual, which has no more claim to language rights than any other ethnic group in Ontario.

If you think as I do, then please contact your elected representatives, provincial and municipal, and demand that they start work today on your behalf to have Bill 8 repealed.

Ottawa, Ont.

Editor:

I read with interest Mr. Kulas' article "Making Things Happen" in your October 26, 1987 issue, and if I may, I would like to correct some minor historical inaccuracies.

Mr. Kulas stated Rotary was founded circa 1903 in Chicago by a salesman, Paul Harris in company with a number of other salesmen.

In fact, Paul Harris was a lawyer and he, together with Gus Loehr, a mining engineer, Hiram Shorey, a merchant tailor and Silvester Schiele, a coal dealer, met together for what was to become the first Rotary meeting in the office of Gus Loehr on February 23, 1905.

Kinsmen work

by Bill Kulas

Almost eight years ago, when we first moved to Minden, I was invited out to a dinner meeting, held by the Kinsmen Club of Minden. A couple of weeks later, I attended a second meeting and after some diplomatic persuasion by two husky Kinsmen, Don Crowe and Tom Prentice, I joined the Club.

Kinsmanship was born in the City of Hamilton, Ontario, on February 20, 1920. It came about through an urgent desire of a young man, just returned from the trenches of the First World War, for the kinship of his fellows. Harold A. Rogers, in his early twenties, was encouraged by his father, a prominent Rotarian, to get together a few young men of his own age. A dinner meeting with a small group at a cafe was the beginning of the Kinsmen. Today there are over 600 clubs across Canada.

The Kinsmen symbol is made up of a cross and square intertwined with ten maple leaves representing the ten provinces of Canada. The cross has been the symbol of service, the square of rightness and with the maple leaves it suggests the intercrossing and interlacing of the lives and tasks of Kinsmen. The Minden Kinsmen Club was chartered in 1956 by the Kinsmen Club of Lindsay. The first presidents were Deac Jackson and Lyle McKnight. The Minden Kinsmen's efforts have always been directed toward the community's greatest needs. The Kinsmen started off with fund drives working toward the purchase and set-up of Minden's first ambulance service.

That was followed with building a children's playground in the municipal parking lot, providing funds for the Minden arena and Community Centre, supplying park benches and building washrooms at the Minden fairgrounds. The Kinsmen have helped in other ways as well. Whether it be in helping those in need with Christmas baskets, the unfortunate fire victim, calling bingo for the seniors at Hyland Crest, supplying the Minden Hospital with a croupette or in the raising of funds for the CatScan of Peterborough. While both Kinsmen and Kinettes deal with their community's immediate needs, it is through the combined efforts and support of all Kinsmen Clubs of Canada, that funds are continually provided to further the research of Cystic Fibrosis, currently a major terminal disease afflicting many children and young adults. Although no longer a Kinsmen, I try to support their many worthwhile projects such as the Winter Carnival, the Demolition Derby and the Car Races on Ice and I encourage our readers to do the same. Thanks to Lewis Stevens of the Kinsmen for his input as well, thanks to Ed Pergolas for his help in last week's column featuring Rotary.

There are a great many worthwhile clubs and organizations in the Minden area that a person can join and thus, "Make Things Happen." Think about it.

Always just out of reach

As late autumn weather provides the Highlands with a white coating of frost, Maxine Clark, who has been a cottager in the Highlands for the past 12 years, takes a look at one of the treats that calls her back each summer.

by Maxine Clark

I wonder what happens to turn me, the least intrepid of women, into a foraging maniac when it comes to raspberry time. My husband absolutely refuses to walk down the road with me during the season because he says it takes four times as long to reach our destination. I can't resist the lure of the bushes. He won't pick 'em, but he will deign to eat 'em if I pick 'em.

Covered from toe to neck with boots and clothes kept especially for these safaris into the hinterland, daringly unarmed except for my coating of bug repellent and determined attitude, I go on my lonely trek without native beaters to clear the way, oblivious to the numerous dangerously wild animals I might encounter, ready to pounce on this intruder in their emerald domain. With indomitable spirit, I rise to the challenge of the glorious hunt.

There is a special technique, of course, so that the berry in question might not escape. I find that my special hunting gear (alright, so it's only a quart basket!) placed under the "prey-of-the-day" before picking, works well for me - most of the time, anyway. Also, pulling the branch toward you, instead of propelling yourself through the treacherous terrain, is the most effective. Except if the berries are really ripe. Then you are truly in danger of suffering a "berry downer".

Just think of the fear engendered by the sight of a dropped container beside a pile of freshly picked berries! Was the picker frightened by something or someone? And, if so, is it still lurking in the bushes? Undaunted, salivary glands working at the thought of the trophies at the end of the day's hunt, I suppress the temptation to gather these spilled berries. That would be unsportsmanlike!

Consider the trauma of plunging through the thicket, being prevented from a tumble only by the denseness of the forest, the perfect berry just an arm's length away, only to have it so ripe for the picking that the slightest movement of the bush releases it and it falls before you can catch it. Now, if this isn't dangerous sport, I don't know what is!

When my husband thoughtfully asks, "How long will you be gone, dear?", my answer is not calculated in increments of time, but in baskets. It has happened that I have lost all track of time, with the result that after three hours, he has come looking for me, or what might be left of me. When I think I have enough, there is always a tantalizing glimpse of a berry that shouldn't be missed. Now, how could one really ignore a luscious berry, singing like a siren, "come and get me - I'm the best ever?"

My experience has determined that it takes a solid two hours of concentrated picking, given that you have found a prolific patch, to fill one pie shell to mouth-

Not only the cupboard is bare

by Arthur Black

You know what I wish? I wish people would leave our books alone. I'm not even talking about the flat-out censors and bookburners. I'm talking about the tinkers, the tidy-uppers, the prissy little self-appointed arbiters who take it upon themselves to "improve" our reading fare.

Doctor Thomas Bowdler started it all. In the early 1800's the doctor took it upon himself to geld the works of the most famous writer of English the world has ever known. Doctor Bowdler published what he called "A Family Shakespeare" in which "all passages of irreligious or immoral tendency have been removed."

This meant of course that some characters like Macbeth, Hamlet and King Lear were virtually unrecognizable. Wantons such as Falstaff and Doll Tearsheet disappeared completely.

The doctor unleashed a fad that persists to this day. There is right now a chap in England by the name of Geoffrey Hall who has decided that Mother Goose nursery rhymes are too "imperialistic". What those fables need, decided Hall, was a little touch of the pink paintbrush to make them more socially responsible. Old Mother Hubbard for example. Mister Hall has refashioned that fable so that it more correctly mirrors Society As It Ought To Be. Remember how old Mom Hubbard went to check her supplies and got a nasty shock - "when she got there, the cupboard was bare"? Not in Geoffrey Hall's new improved edition. It reads: "When she got there, she found plenty to spare."

Tremendous dramatic impact, eh wot?

Geoffrey Hall has also taken it upon himself to expunge the gratuitous violence and animal abuse from Three Blind Mice. No longer do the three visually disadvantaged rodents have to suffer the indignity of a triple tail docking. He has the farmer's wife "cut off some cheese with a carving knife".

Can't you just envision kids clambering all over you, begging you to repeat the thrilling saga about the farmer's wife who cut the cheese?

The literary revisionists are at work on other fronts too - Beatrix Potter's "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" has just been reissued in a "simplified and up-dated" edition.

Peter Rabbit? Simplified?

Yep. Gone are the authors exquisitely wispy watercolours depicting Peter and his pals in the garden. In their place are stodgy photographs of ... puppets. Gone too, are any references in the text that might possibly offend children and cause them to ... well, think. The fact that Peter's father wound up as the main ingredient in a rabbit pie is no longer mentioned. Even the way Peter moves has been "dumbed down". His paws no longer go "lippety lip". In the new edition he just "hops".

Why would any publisher knowingly gut a classic tale? "This is an attempt to appeal to the non-book-buying public" says the publisher.

Oh, good idea. Get those non-readers interested in the non-story of Peter Rabbit. If this works, next time we could take out all the original material and insert something really attractive.

Like, say, the TV Guide.

It would be bad enough if these unnatural descendants of Doctor Bowdler confined their prudish predations to children's literature. They don't. They are also chipping away at a literary work from which even Doctor Bowdler shied away.

The Bible.

Now available at better religious bookstores everywhere.

is a handy tome called the Inclusive Language Lectionary. It's put out by the U.S. National Council of Churches. Purpose: to strip selected Bible passages of all vestiges of male chauvinism.

Thus the Lectionary recommends that the famous prayer be altered to begin: "Our Father and Mother who art in Heaven, hallowed by thy names ..."

"Father, Son and Holy Ghost" becomes "Father and Mother, Child and Holy Ghost" (which sounds like the Holy Trinity has been boosted to an Unholy Quartet). In Matthew, the revisionists grudgingly allow the Three Wise Men to keep their gender, but proclaim that it was the ruler, not the King of the Jews they were searching for.

Just in case Jesus turned out to be a closet queen, I guess.

All of this would be a lot funnier if it turned out to be a skit on Saturday Night Live or a satire from the CBC drama department. It isn't. Geoffrey Hall is alive and blue-pencilling in Britain, as are the hacks rewriting Beatrix Potter. The U.S. National Council of Churches is alive, if not well, and seeking to direct and channel the thought patterns of the Christian faithful.

Depressing.

I can't say I wish all the aforementioned would go to Hell. That would be uncharitable, not to mention un-Christian. But it wouldn't bother me if they spent a few months in purgatory.

I visualize purgatory as a dentist's waiting room, where the only reading material is a dog-eared copy of "All's Well That Ends Well" - in which all words that can be construed as sexist, racist, ageist, elitist, violent, suggestive or anything other than pure beige neutral - have been blacked out.

Happy reading, turkeys.

Missionaries providing opportunity

Despite their eagerness to get ahead, a lack of opportunity for the people of Nepal had kept that country from progressing. However, new opportunity accompanied by progress is gradually building in the small country with the assistance provided by missionaries who are now allowed to enter Nepal.

Bob and Phyllis Wallace, United Church Missionaries who established a business school in Kathmandu, Nepal, provided an informative presentation on their activities to a group of about 20 Minden businessmen at the Minden United Church last Tuesday. The Wallaces were appointed missionaries to Nepal by the Division of World Outreach of the United Church of Canada in 1978.

For more than 200 years, Nepal was a closed country to the outside world, said Bob Wallace. However, the doors were opened about 40 years ago to missionaries.

One of the conditions placed on missionaries coming into Nepal is that they are not allowed to try and convert the people away from the State religion of Hindu. Wallace said missionaries do have opportunities to discuss Christianity if they were challenged. However, he said the missionaries have to use much discretion. If one missionary is found breaking this rule, it is possible that they all could be expelled from the country.

For this reason, the missionaries' efforts are concentrated on helping the people to progress rather than on preaching.

In 1978, the Wallaces went to work as a business team wherever the need was the greatest within the country. Initially they worked in the administrative departments of the mission hospital in the foothills of the Himalayas. And later, after completing a four-month Nepali language study program, they went to work within the treasury of the mission, where they stayed until the completion of their two-year term.

However, instead of returning to Canada at the end of their two years, the Wallaces accepted the challenge of establishing a secretarial and business school. Through this school, they helped to provide an opportunity for the people that never before existed.

Bob Wallace said "the people are hungry to take off, but the opportunity is not there." However, when given an opportunity to improve their lot in life, they "lunge ahead".

As an example of what can happen when the people are given an opportunity,

Wallace pointed out the progress made by one student who had previously been a beggar. Normally, the chances of a beggar ever finding work are almost nil. However, this young boy enrolled in the business school, and is now working as a secretary and occasional aide to important visitors to the country.

Many of the graduates of the business and secretarial school find work as secretarial personnel within the mission, helping to reduce the need for expatriate personnel. Other graduates are hired by the community at large.

The success of the school is reflected by the fact that Bob and Phyllis Wallace are no longer needed to manage the facility. They have passed their skills onto their students, who have now taken over the duties.

The business school is just one example of the progress being made in Nepal with the help of missionaries. Work to improve health conditions within the country is another area with measurable results.

Wallace noted that in one area in Nepal, the death rate for children under five years of age was 58 per cent. He said missionaries came in and set up programs on nutrition, as well as health posts. And within three years the death rate was reduced substantially to about 12 per cent.

While there is no question that the Wallaces contributed a great deal to Nepal during their six years in the country, Wallace says he and his wife also received a great deal from the experience. Being a missionary in Nepal brought them much happiness and fellowship, he said. "We got a great deal out of it."

Bill and Phyllis Wallace.

'Parent burnout' can be avoided

From the moment newborn children arrive home from the hospital, until the time they leave home to live on their own, and perhaps longer, parents are faced with a tremendous challenge.

Raising children is "an incredible job. It's a huge undertaking and it's fraught with all sorts of pitfalls," Roberta Beacroft told the Home and School Association during a meeting at the high school last Monday.

However, "parent burnout" can be avoided if parents bring their expectations more in line with reality. Beacroft, a counsellor on time and stress management and a writer for Teen Magazine, told the group of about 40 parents that the amount of stress felt by parents is equal to the gap between expectations and reality.

Parents have heavy expectations of their children, she said. And when these expectations are not met, the parents feel much pain and frustration.

To avoid this frustration, she said parents have to lower the expectations placed on their children. She said she tries to hold problems up to the light and confront them. The reality of children cannot be changed, but parents' expectations can.

As an example, Beacroft examined the problem of children fighting among each other. "We always expect our children will be exceptional and get along with each other," she said. However, it is normal behaviour for children to disagree.

"The greatest gift we can give our children is the gift of being normal ... being ordinary," she said. Conflict is natural and normal until parents inflict their beliefs on it. Unless the fighting gets out of hand or becomes physical, parents should accept that their children will have differences of opinion.

The stress of raising children is felt most by parents who try the hardest, said Beacroft. Parents who get burned out are those who are really "gung ho," she said. "You can't get burned out if you've never had the fire."

While she encourages this strong interest in children, Beacroft says it is important to identify the causes of stress. One of the biggest causes of stress is "strengths that go berserk." For example, she said neatness is a strength, but if it is taken too far it can harm a parent's relations with others. "You can get uptight about the condition of your house to the point where you can't even enjoy living in it."

To avoid this, parents have to find a middle ground, said Beacroft. Be caring, but try not to let it go to extremes.

Doing things for the sake of the children is great, she said. However, it can get to the point where parents feel that everything they do should be for their children's sake, and this can build resentment.

She said parents should be able to enjoy doing things with their children without worrying that the activity has to benefit the children in some way.

If parents are feeling overstressed, sometimes a very small change in their own behaviour can make a world of difference.

Beacroft compared this to light travelling through a prism. If the prism is held perfectly still, the spectrum will remain unchanged.

However, a slight adjustment to the prism can result in dramatic changes to the spectrum.

watering satisfaction. Some might wonder why one would risk the bites of insects, the scratches of the bracken, and the threat of a turned ankle on the uneven ground (to which you never give a thought in your crusade for the perfect berry!), for one pie. But, if they do, they haven't had fresh wild raspberry pie!

I have just returned from one hour of picking, hot and sweating, scratches where they are going to show at the office tomorrow. But, now comes the indescribable ecstasy of pouring my one hour's labour into two very small bowls and pouring on the cream. Ummm.

Trade to benefit consumers

by Bill Scott, M.P.

The Free Trade Agreement (FTA) will benefit Canadian consumers through lower prices, a wider variety of goods and services to choose from, and a better quality product. While it is too early to put precise dollar figures on the savings in the Consumer Price Index of between 5.7 per cent and 7.5 per cent.

Estimates of savings can be shown based on the current import schedule:

If the agreement had been in force last year, Canadian consumers would have paid $2.1 billion less in tariffs on goods coming into Canada from the United States.

In 1986, Canadian consumers would have saved $21 million on the purchase of major household appliances, such as clothes dryers and washers, refrigerators, stoves/ranges and dishwashers, if the FTA had been in effect.

Broken down further, one would have saved approximately $45 per imported U.S. washing machine and approximately $53 per dishwasher; over $5 million on the purchase of boots and shoes; $1.9 million on the purchase of bedsheets; over $6.3 million on small household items such as candles, brooms, luggage, toys and vegetable oils; $10.6 million on furniture.

The Ottawa Citizen reports that a $9 bottle of California chablis wine could cost as little as $3.

There will no longer be duties imposed on goods brought back into Canada by travellers from the U.S. Currently, a duty of up to 25 per cent is applied to goods purchased in the U.S. For example, a knitted shirt which cost $10 U.S. would be valued at $13 Canadian for duty purposes and would cost the consumer $3.25 to bring it across the border. Used cars can be purchased in the U.S. and driven home duty-free.

These are conservative estimates, as they do not take into account the savings that will result from more efficient domestic production (bigger markets and longer production runs).

Other benefits which are difficult to quantify, but will result in savings to consumers, include:

A greater variety of products will be available, as the elimination of trade barriers will result in an increased flow of goods between the two countries.

While the effect on consumer goods will be significant, the impact of free trade in services is likely to be even more dramatic.

Consumers can expect to benefit from more competition in banking and financial services, travel and a whole host of personal services.

Greater competition will result in a higher quality of consumer goods.

What does the agreement accomplish for the energy sector?

It assures a secure market for Canadian energy exports free from tariff and non-tariff barriers.

It enables Canada to continue to screen and, if necessary, refuse acquisitions of Canadian-controlled oil and gas firms.

It guarantees dispute resolution - binding, stable predictable rules to conduct our trade relationship, adjudicated by a bi-National panel.

It eliminates recent U.S. restrictions on Canadian uranium exports.

It phases out tariffs on imports of Canadian petrochemical and refined oil products.

It assures Canadian industry secure access to competitively priced energy supplied from U.S. continental states.

Three-way tie for lead in recreational hockey

With two weeks of hockey out of the way, there is a three-way tie for the lead in the Minden Men's Recreational League.

The Rockcliffe, Halls Insurance and The Times all won again last Monday to boost their records to two wins and no losses. Vasey Real Estate, Hartwick and Home Hardware are still looking for their first wins as they head into the third week of play tonight.

Times 6, Home 0

Andy Campbell led The Times into their second win with three goals en route to the 6-0 victory. Jeff Howe, Sid MacKeigan and Ken Varry each added one goal while Rob Crowe earned the shut-out.

Halls 9, Vasey 4

A high-scoring third-period rally gave Halls a 9-4 win over Vasey in the second game of the night after they had struggled to a 2-2 tie through two periods.

Halls took a 2-0 lead in the opening frame only to have Vasey come back and tie it up by the end of the second. Halls then outscored their opponents 7-2 in the final frame to earn the win.

Scoring for Halls were Barry Boice (2), Kim Collis (2), Tom Haley (2), Greg Anderson, Rod Finlay and Dave Rogers.

Dean Hewitt led Vasey with two goals while Kevin Hamilton and Jerry Campbell each added one.

Rockcliffe 14, Hartwick 11

Lawrence Loughheed paved the way for the Rockcliffe's second win with seven goals in their 14-11 win over Hartwick during the final game Monday.

The lead changed hands three times in the second high-scoring game in as many weeks for Rockcliffe. They took an early 2-0 lead, only to have Hartwick retaliate with four of their own. However, Rockcliffe scored twice more to end the first period with a 4-4 tie. Hartwick struck first in the second frame, but Rockcliffe came back with six consecutive goals and held onto the lead for the rest of the game.

Al Cunningham added four goals for Rockcliffe while Harold Cowen scored twice and Jim Winn scored once.

Lee Bull led the scoring for Hartwick with four goals. Larry Sawyer earned a hat-trick and Bart Hilhorst scored one.

Tonight, Rockcliffe faces off against Vasey at 7 p.m., Hartwick meets Home at 8:30 p.m. and Halls takes on The Times at 10 p.m.

County Warden Murray Fearrey adds to the enjoyment of the evening by attempting to play the tuba during the annual Warden's Banquet held Tuesday, October 23.

Business supply office open

Merchants and business managers who have in the past searched high and low for a particular, but necessary, piece of office furniture or business supply form, now have a new place to look and likely find what it is they want.

Satellite Office Supplies has come to the rescue of those who just couldn't locate that vital piece they needed to make the business side of their operation run smoothly and efficiently. Operated by Dick Hope and managed by Estella Burch, Satellite Office Supply is located on Highway 35, next to the Westside Jug City convenience store.

Satellite Office Supplies carries a full range of office supplies including vital accounting forms and books, payroll books, ledgers, receipt books and more. And if they don't have what you need on hand, they'll be happy to order it for you. "We are looking to meet the needs of the local business community," manager Estella Burch commented. "We're happy to cater to the requirements of both large and small enterprises."

Office furniture will also be available through this new outlet. They have an extensive selection of catalogues from which you can choose the items you require.

The store also stocks items of interest to students, and those operating an office out of their home. With Christmas just around the corner, they expect their supply of mailing tubes, heavy parcel paper and other supplies will be in demand.

After the market has been assessed, the store could also stock supplies for those who operate a computer at their business or at home, including paper, labels and other supplies.

The name Satellite Office

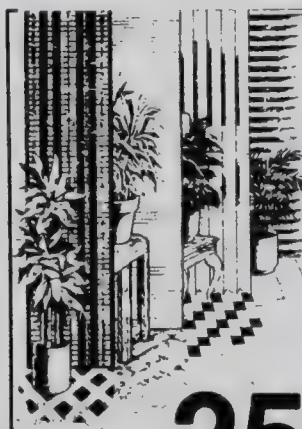

Owner Dick Hope and manager Estella Burch peruse one of the many catalogues in the store.

Supplies, reflects the other interest owner Dick Hope has been involved in. For the past six years he has been one of the main suppliers of satellite dishes and receiving equipment in the county under the name R. Hope Satellite T.V. While the new store will concentrate on providing office supplies for area businesses, he has taken the opportunity to erect a dish and set aside some space within the new store to see the many channels available through satellite television reception.

Satellite Office Supplies will be open Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Politics rewarding: Miller

Premier of the province, told the gathering that being a part of the political process in Ontario is a rewarding and valuable exercise, despite what he described as growing cynicism among the public for politicians. Using his own experience as an example, he noted it was possible for an individual to have a meaningful impact on policies and directions. He said that he has learned that politicians can make things happen and challenged those who are cynical to get involved in the process rather than stand on the sidelines and criticize.

The former Premier paid tribute to municipal politicians in particular, noting that they were on the "front lines" having the most direct impact on the lives of the people they represent. Miller congratulated the municipal politicians in attendance for their efforts on behalf of the areas they represent.

Miller's presentation, though serious, also contained a number of humorous anecdotes with his or his own party's success, or lack of same, often the target. At one point, he asked the audience if they knew what the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party and a Chrysler Maxi-Van had in common. After a brief pause, he told the gathering that they both had the same number of seats, 14, referring to the PC's recent standing in the provincial election.

Before the formalities ended, Warden Murray Fearrey expressed his appreciation to those gathered for the evening. He said this would be his last opportunity to serve as the county's Warden and declared his dedication to Haliburton County.

Following the banquet, the guests enjoyed a dance.

Former Ontario Premier Frank Miller was the guest speaker during the Warden's Banquet last week. To Miller's right are Haliburton County Warden Murray Fearrey and his wife.

Redmen hockey starts November 9

Items from the October 27 meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education.

High School Hockey

The board has given its approval for Haliburton Highlands Secondary School to ice a hockey team in the Kawartha District High School league this coming season. The approval was given following a presentation by vice principal Gary Brohman.

In his report to the board, Brohman outlined the success of the team last year and reported that some 35 students were interested in trying out for the team. He told the trustees that the coaching staff at HHSS had met with other coaches in the league to discuss the league ruled and he felt the difficulties which had plagued the play-off series last year, would not occur again.

Asked whether participation in the hockey team had affected the academic achievement of the players, the coach said that many of last year's players were on the school's honour rolls and that all grade 13 players on last year's team were attending university this year.

Brohman said there would be no cost to the board for the regular season if the team receives the support of fans. He said the money earned at the gate helped to cover team expenses last year. He noted however, if the team were to advance into the playoff rounds, at the end of the regular season, the team may require financial help. He said the team will be willing to play a number of its games at the Minden arena.

The board gave its approval for the coming season, but not before Trustee Len Salvatori of Dysart noted there is no money in the budget for the sport.

The HHSS Hockey Redmen open their season November 9 in Peterborough. The first home game is the following day at the Dysart arena, beginning at 1:45 p.m.

Playground equipment

The board has given tentative approval to plan to install new playground equipment at the Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden. The equipment is to be donated by the school's Home and School Association.

Judy Phillips of Minden was in attendance at the meeting and explained the association's involvement. Photos of the proposed equipment, which combined a number of play areas and apparatus were circulated.

Seniors lose in soccer final

- submitted -

The Haliburton senior soccer team finished their season last Monday, losing a close game 1 - 0 against Fenelon Falls in the Kawartha West, sudden death play off final. The senior Redmen had an excellent season this year with a record of 3 wins, 2 ties and 1 loss. With the success of the junior team this year, next year promises to be even better, as many of the juniors will be coming into the senior ranks.

Coach Tose congratulates the team for a fine season and wishes to thank the team for their hard work and dedication. The senior Redmen this year were Andy Cooper, Trini Elias, Steve Freeman, Darryl Goodall, Jan Haedicke, Chris Lanigan, Thierry Mignon, Gerald Morrison, Steve Rowell, Cecil Smith, Cliff Smith, Terry Smith, Mark Sorenson, Steve Stoughton, Rob Thibadeau, Callum Wood, Gord Wood, Chris Youngdale and Kelly Youngdale. Jason Goodall and Roland Greber were the team managers.

The junior soccer Redmen also went down to defeat in a razor-close contest against LCVI, by a score of 2 - 1.

This was by far the most successful season in the history of junior soccer in Haliburton. During the regular season, the team went undefeated, posting three wins and three ties.

Outstanding season-long performances were recorded by captain and striker, Darren Warburton at centre-forward, Paddy Taylor in midfield, and Jason Billings at fullback. Steady performers included Darnell Francis, Darin Warburton, Darryl Winder, David Kinsella, and Chris Holliday-Rhodes in goal. The team roster was rounded out by Bart Whiting, Wyatt Nesbitt, Wade Wood, Pat Casey, Kyle Mann, Erich Nash, Jeff Nash, Alan Flemming and Justin Gentle.

These athletes ensure a strong soccer program at HHSS for the next two seasons at least.

She told the group, the association had raised a portion of the $5000 cost and suggested the remainder could be found in time for the equipment to be installed. The association is also proposing to purchase a number of tire swings for the school ground.

Phillips noted that several pieces of equipment were removed from the playground recently to make room for the addition of portable classrooms and some of the remaining equipment was quite old.

Several members of the board expressed concern regarding the liability of playground equipment and suggested if it was purchased that the board ensure it is installed correctly. The board's business administrator Jim Bradley and Archie Stouffer School principal Mackay Brydon were asked to examine the proposed equipment and report back to the board before formal approval is granted for its installation.

Abuse video

The same Home and School Association has also donated a child sexual abuse education video to the school. The video, entitled "Feeling Yes--Feeling No", is suitable for grade 4 to 8 classes Phillips said.

The group was commended for its concern and interest in this area and thanked for the donation of the program.

Additional class

To reduce the pressure on existing classes created by a larger than expected Kindergarten enrolment at Victoria Street school, the board has agreed to add a fourth class. There are close to 80 children currently enrolled in the three classes at the school.

While approving the increase in the number of classes, several members of the board also expressed concern that two of the kindergarten classes will meet in a portable classroom adjacent to the school. It was noted that the portable does not have washroom facilities, nor intercom connection to the main school. It was pointed out that if a teacher was forced to leave the classroom, to tend to an injured child, for example, the other youngsters would be left on their own.

The board agreed to look into a communication link between the portables and the main building.

Later in the meeting, the board rejected the idea of hiring teacher assistants for the kindergarten classes in the portable. It was noted that in adding the extra class, the number of students in each class had been reduced below the number for which assistants were normally supplied.

Urban beavers live differently from t

Recently I came on an aspen as big around as a man's thigh which had been felled and cut up by beavers.

This cutting was done on a small man-made spit in Lake Ontario about a quarter of a mile from the mouth of the Humber River. The Credit, the Humber and the Rouge rivers in Metropolitan Toronto all have resident beaver populations.

Urban beavers live somewhat differently from their northern counterparts. There are at least two populations in the Humber River, both of which are bank dwellers. As a rule they do not dam or build a lodge. Occasionally they have delusions of grandeur and attempt to fell a 60 foot poplar. One poplar this size stood for a season suspended on a 4 inch thick spike the beavers couldn't quite get at.

Historically the pursuit of beaver pelts pushed trade routes westward to Lake Superior and James Bay. The Hudson's Bay Company established its northern fur trade in 1670 mainly because of the supply of beaver. So important was the beaver to the economic growth of Canada that it has become a national emblem.

By the early 1800's intensive trapping had temporarily exterminated the beaver in many places in Ontario. In fact, when the beavers

Sled dog races

During the second weekend in January, six sled-dog races will take place across North America: in California, Minnesota, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Minden, Ontario. In spite of the opportunities to pursue their sport, mushers from far and wide will decide to travel to Minden to compete on January 9th and 10th. The $10,000 purse, a challenging course, first-class race organization, and the fine tourist facilities of the Haliburton Highlands are among the factors that will make the fourth running of the Minden Sled Dog Derby, sponsored by Martin Feed Mills of Elmira, Ontario, their first choice.

The course for the Minden Sled Dog Derby is widely regarded as one of the toughest challenges of the race year, requiring mushers to have their dogs in peak condition.

In many ways, the Minden Sled Dog Derby has become the testing ground for the year's crop of teams, enabling dog-racing enthusiasts to rate the quality of the competition they can expect to encounter throughout the season ahead. Come to Minden on January 9th and 10th and see for yourself!

Achieving honours yet again were Anthony Hartin and Ian Cooper with five years and Jennifer Gentle who received her four years honours award.

Perfect attendance (number of years). From the left, front row, Tanya Little (1), Larry Little (1), Mayanne Jordens (1), Heather Donaldson (1), Christopher Dair (1), Kristen Creelman (1), Karen Cooper (1), Shelley Blair (1) and Jason Adam (1). their northern counterparts were exterminated in the area between Trout Lake and Georgian Bay, their dams caved in taking out two miles of beaver ponds which had made the route just passable for the huge canoes carrying furs.

By the turn of this century the trade in beaver had declined, largely because of the dwindling beaver population. Now beaver populations are again common throughout much of Ontario due to improved trapping laws and reintroduction schemes. In fact, so successful has the beaver comeback been that almost any suitable waterway in Ontario probably has a beaver population. Complaints about beaver dams flooding agricultural land or beavers removing ornamental trees from private property come in regularly to the local offices of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

The beaver, the largest

North American rodent, has proved to be tough and adaptable. His amazing ability to survive the rigours of our winter is well-known. His much-prized fur coat is really two coats, a dense mat of very fine underfur, and an outer layer of heavy guard hairs. Through constant combing and oiling, the beaver keeps this dense pelt waterproof. Oil is obtained from two glands near the anus. Its long thick tail, shaped like the wide end of a canoe paddle, serves several functions. It acts as a rudder and as a prop while the beaver cuts. It also makes canoeists on a quiet lake jump when it hits the water with a resounding smack warning of danger.

For underwater work the beaver is equipped with goggles, a transparent nictitating membrane which closes over its eyes. Special valves cover ears and nose, shutting out water, and two folds of skin, one on either side of the mouth, allow it to carry branches or chew underwater without drinking half the pond.

Castor canadensis takes its Latin name from the castor, a sweet-smelling oily substance secreted by another pair of abdominal glands. It uses castor to mark its territory with a series of mud pies around the edges of the pond.

Although beavers can be a nuisance in certain areas with their damming and cutting activities, the ponds they create are excellent habitat for wildlife of many kinds. The abandoned ponds turn gradually to moose meadow. Beavers working on a stream can help stabilize flow, prevent both bank and streambed erosion, and help keep the water table high. It speaks well for conservation practices in Ontario that our national emblem is numerous enough again to be a nuisance.

Board seeks funding

mated that this project will cost about $2-million.

The question of providing additional classroom space in Haliburton is more complex than Minden. While the board has determined that there is a need for more space, it still has to decide whether to renovate and expand on Victoria Street School or close it down and expand J.D. Hodgson. Other options may also be considered. Because this still needs ironing out, the board felt that expansion at Archie Stouffer should be given first priority.

The resolution passed at Thursday's meeting is as follows: The board approves the capital forecast report for 1988 requesting ministry allocations for permanent building projects at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden and for the Village of Haliburton.

Presently, there is insufficient classroom space at Victoria Street School. The board was told that part of the gym, and a basement kitchen have been converted to classrooms. One of the portable classrooms is being used as a library, music and special learning room.

Continued growth in student population is anticipated in Haliburton, and by 1992 it is expected that there will be seven portable classrooms on the site if no permanent structures are built.

Part of the problem at Victoria Street School is its age. Built in 1924, the building has deteriorated to the point where it could be costly to maintain or improve. Compounding the situation is space limitation. Additional classrooms at the school would cut into the amount of playing field.

While the board has not made any decisions on where construction would take place in Haliburton, it has determined that 10 additional classrooms will be needed. The application for ministry funding will be based on this requirement, and the cost is estimated roughly at $1.6-million.

It is expected that, if approved, ministry funding will account for 55 to 65 per cent of the cost of these expansions. The remainder of the costs would be borne by the board. The education director noted that all present debentures in the elementary level will be paid off by 1991.

LOCALS RESPONSE TO YOKEL'S ACCUSATION

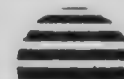

- submitted -

In a telephone conversation from Moose Country with Local Bob Austin regarding Yokel Tom Boyce's suggestion that Austin purposely left to hunt moose a day early to evade their golf rematch, is in his words "Absolutely correct" and the reason is simple. Last year he told Boyce "No more re-matches" because Austin says he had to carry Boyce's golf bag for him, also his booze, beer and ice, mix his drinks, found his golf balls and kept his score and says he was lucky to beat Boyce by 10 strokes. But Austin says if Boyce will carry his own golf bag and find his own balls then the 1988 Local - Yokel Open shall be their re-match.

Overweight or underheight?

Dr. Stephen Dawson is a Medical practitioner serving the-Minden community who writes a weekly column on health matters for The Times.

Too short for your weight?

It's a problem that a lot of us face.

Obesity can result in high blood pressure, diabetes and high cholesterol which all contribute to heart attacks and strokes. People who are overweight tend to run into other problems including gallstones, arthritis, skin and lung disorders. But how do we know if we are actually overweight? Ideal body weight can be estimated as follows:

1. Start from 100 pounds for women and 110 pounds for men.

2. 5 pounds are added or subtracted for every inch above or below 5 feet.

3. 10% is added for individuals with an average frame, 20% for those with a large frame.

So according to this formula, a 5 foot 6 inch average frame woman should weigh 100 plus 30 plus 13 - 143 pounds. Some people are obese because of an underactive thyroid gland or a disorder of the adrenal gland or rare congenital syndromes, but these people are among a very small minority. Most fat people simply eat too much.

To calculate the number of calories per day to get you down to your ideal body weight, multiply 10 times your ideal body weight. For example, this 5 foot 6 inch lady should consume 10 x 143 - 1430 calories per day.

Once the ideal body weight is reached, the daily intake of calories is 13 x the ideal body weight. Therefore the same lady would be able to consume 13 x 130 - 1690 calories per day to maintain her weight. If she exercised daily she could even consume more than this, but exercise is no substitute for proper dietary management.

There are many over the counter slimming drugs which are appetite suppressants. Many studies have shown that there is only minimal weight loss (1 - 4 kg) over 12 weeks with no retention of weight loss once the drug is stopped. They have an addictive potential and none is recommended.

There are many fad diets which cause loss of body water without any loss of fat.

There are two radical diets known as the very low calorie diet and the protein-sparing modified-fast diet which appear to be successful in patients who are unsuccessful with conventional dieting.

It is important when choosing treatment to individualize the weight loss program according to the patient's age, degree of obesity, motivation and likelihood of future obesity-related illnesses. Patients should consult their physician and get a dietician's advice for their individual weight loss strategy.

New bird book available

There is a new kind of bird book available. Five years in the making, it is a concentrated picture obtained over that five years of the distribution and breeding range of each of the nearly 300 species which nest in Ontario. The book, sponsored jointly by The Federation of Ontario Naturalists and The Long Point Bird Observatory, is the Atlas of the Breeding Birds of Ontario.

More than 1300 people tramped or canoed through most areas of this vast province to provide the first real inventory of the avian population of Ontario. Following the pioneering work of the The Atlas of Breeding Birds in Britain and Ireland (19076), the atlas editorial committee divided the southern section of the province into 10 x 10 km squares and northern Ontario into 100 x 100 km blocks. After coordinators had assessed the habitat and estimated the number of species likely to be in the squares, the field workers attempted to establish records of breeding evidence for at least 75 per cent of these species. In the large blocks, many of which were inaccessible except by foot or canoe, the goal was to increase knowledge of bird distribution in this little-known area by covering at least major habitats in each block.

Each species recorded in southern Ontario receives two pages in the Atlas. On the first page, there is a description of the bird's habits and its preferred nesting sites, and, on the facing page, maps of both southern Ontario and the whole province marking distribution and population density. Such a record of distribution makes this an indispensable accompaniment to a good field guide like Peterson's A Field Guide to the Birds. It will provide quick reference for experienced birders and basic information for those puzzling over a new bird in the garden or at the cottage. Any uncertainties about whether you actually could have seen a Caspian tern on Georgian Bay can be resolved by consulting the distribution map opposite the account of the Caspian tern. Using the Atlas it is possible to make a list of species one might see while travelling in any area of the province.

The Atlas also gives some information on the relative abundance of any species. Mike Cadman, one of the Atlas editors, tells the story of one of the graphics people working on the Atlas who was examining the map showing the distribution of the indigo bunting. It was marked in early every square in southern Ontario. He couldn't believe it. "I've only ever seen one in my whole life," he marvelled.

The Atlas speculates that modifications in habitat may have encouraged certain species. For instance, the ruby-throated hummingbird, with a high concentration of breeding records along the southern margin of the Canadian Shield in cottage country, may owe its relative abundance to clearing for hydro lines, cottages and roads, as well as to the proliferation of hummingbird feeders.

The Atlas also helps confirm one's own observations which is always gratifying. For instance, the pileated woodpecker, harried by trophy hunters, logging, and forest fires, was a rare sighting in the Muskoka/Haliburton area when I was young, 40 years ago. Lately it has returned to occupy much of its former range. The astounding speed with which the house finch is spreading in southern Ontario is confirmed by the Atlas.

There were some surprises even for the veteran birders. No one expected to find such a high population of screech owls in southern Ontario or canvasbacks nesting at Luther Lake.

The small pen and ink drawings of each species add another dimension to the pleasure of the book. Scientifically accurate, the drawings are often art in the sense of having caught for an instant the essence of the bird.

Anyone fascinated by birds must have this book. The price of $53.50 is modest when one considers the hours of work involved in its production and the hours of pleasure it will bring the buyer. You may order one from the University of Waterloo Press at (519) 885-1211 ext. 3369. You may also purchase it at enlightened bookstores.

Horticultural happenings

Ontario Horticultural District No. 4 Annual Meeting was held Saturday, October 17, 1987.

Our meeting was held at Sir Sandford Fleming College, in Peterborough, and attended by six of our members.

The day started off with coffee and muffins, supplied by our hosts Rice Lake Horticultural Society.

At 10 a.m. the minutes of the previous meeting were read, then a report from our District Director, Jim Trotter spoke after which the treasurer's report was read by our new Treasurer, Hazel Wilson.

Our speaking for the morning was Kurt Crist of Weall & Cullen, who spoke on house plants. Accordingly he started out by saying plants do not like the idea of being indoors, but if you mist them and try to keep the humidity level at 65% they will survive. As we all know they also have to have lots of light. Mr. Crist doesn't believe in moisture meters, he claims a finger is the best. If moist on top leave it alone. If it's dry for half to an inch, in depth, water from the bottom, or put in sink till well watered under running tap. If your plant survives for 6 months you must be doing the right thing. If going away for a holiday, water well and put plastic bag over plants. Mr. Crist recommends half as much fertilizer and half as often as package calls for, but for flowering plants, a little bit of fertilizer each time you water. Azaleas need water every day.

If a plant is sick, don't fertilize, it will kill it for sure.

Leaching your plants once a year is a good idea, by putting your plants in the bathtub and running water through them.

Thank goodness bug killers are now organic and not chemical, so they are safer to use if you have a problem. I asked about "Raid House and Garden Killer" and he said, "The plants don't like the cold propellant that's used in this product." If a bad bug problem is evident, cut back completely, and it should be okay when it grows again.

We were fortunate to have Cam Stewart, the O.H.A. President of District No. 1 on hand to run the election of Directors. Director: Jim Trotter. Assistant Directors: Doris Coe, Dora Atwell and Amy Leal. Treasurer: Hazel Wilson. Auditors: Sid Townsend and Roberta Copeland.

Each society's representative gave a two minute speech on "How can the District better service the local society", and there were some good ideas put forth. Our President, Illa Cooper, thought that it would be a good idea to separate our district into three different sections, North, East and West, and South, and for the District Director to visit each section once every three years to help with the individual problems that might arise.

We broke for lunch at noon. We began our lunch with the Horticultural Grace, this was followed with the introduction of the head table by President of District 4 Mr. Jim Trotter. Mr. Cam Stewart O.H.A. President, greeted everyone. At the end of the luncheon, we had draws for many prizes. There were six prizes of wild rice, with recipes from the hosting society Rice Lake. After the draw the Rice Lake Society had a sing song. At the end of the entertainment we resumed the program in the auditorium at 2 p.m. Our Speaker Kathy Reid from Otonabee Region Conservation Authority was introduced by B. Harris. She spoke on the formation of the conservation authority, stating they had a community relation program to introduce the Authority to the people. She said their big project was Tree Planting. This assistance consists of -

A - the provision of technical advice.

B - The delivery of trees from the nearest provincial nursery to the planting site.

C - The actual planting of the trees.

This planting can only be of 1000 trees planted on a 2 acre area. $50.00 is charged for the 1000 trees planted. This is payable to the Otonabee Region Conservation Authority.

Jim Trotter thanked Kathy for her excellent program. He then called on Doris Cloe who expressed her thanks on behalf of the board to the speakers and congratulated the Societies for their remarks on "How the District can better serve the societies."

On the unfinished business Mr. Trotter asked if there were any volunteers to host the Spring Seminar. The Minden Society said they would be willing to host the Spring Seminar. There were several questions asked at the open forum. Our O.H.A. President Mr. Cam Stewart was asked if the government grants would be continued. He said they would continue and may be the $500.00 grant would be increased to $1,000.00. This was to help the smaller Societies to survive. Adjournment was at 3 p.m.

The Minden and District Horticultural Society have had a busy and successful year. November 3 brings us the last general meeting for 1987.

A highlight of this meeting will be a presentation of photography by Marion Hill, who has taken a good many pictures of local gardens and plantings in the surrounding area. You may even see your own garden on the screen. Throughout the year competitions have been held at each meeting and the awards to the winners of these will be given out.

The nominating committee has been busy and will announce the slate of Directors and President for the up-coming year.

As usual there will be draws and refreshments. Since last meeting six members attended the Annual District 4 meeting in Peterborough and a report of this will be given on Tuesday.

The flower beds have been cleaned up - and spring bulbs have been planted.

From now on until spring we must take good care of our house plants. Proper light, good watering, occasional fertilizing, good humidity - and watch for pests! Talk to your plants - they love it!

IN MEMORIAM

ROWDEN: In loving memory of a dear niece, Laura, taken from us November 2, 1985.

Gone from the earth so swiftly
Just like a flower in bloom
So young, so fair, so loving
Yet called away too soon.

Always remembered by Uncle Ken and Aunt Marilyn, Michael, Lisa and Trisha.

ROWDEN: Laura. In loving memory of a dear niece who left us November 2, 1985.

Although we smile and make no fuss
No one misses you Laura more than us.

IN MEMORIAM

And when old times we often recall
That's when we miss you Laura most of all.

Always remembered and sadly missed by Aunts, Uncles and Cousins.

ROWDEN: Laura. In loving memory of a dear granddaughter who left us suddenly November 2, 1985.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance
Just a memory sad and true
Just a love and sweet devotion
Of your Gram who miss and loves you.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed always by Nell (Gram) Miscio.
